

Question Time

That public safety is supremely important is a consensus few would dispute. University campus is a public domain with open access internally to its employees and externally to the public. Federal laws require that all employers provide a safe work environment. I am aware that there have been complaints about a bullying and harassing culture going on campus, and there have been requests to install security cameras in ALL buildings that don't have cameras yet as a security mechanism to counter such bullying culture. Public places like Target, T J Max, Kroger, Rang Dong Grocery Store, Cookie Cottage, to name just a few, all have security cameras in place.

How many buildings on campus have cameras and what are these buildings? Does the University have plans to install cameras in buildings that don't have surveillance cameras?

L. Lin