The week before Fall Break VC Drummond announced there would be a big change in the way that academic advising would be handled on this campus. The proposal that was made public, among many other things, aimed to remove faculty from direct student advising until the students were “developmentally ready to benefit from that relationship” i.e. relationship with faculty in their major). The response to the initial wave of opposition was to depict those criticizing this “well-considered” proposal as just trying to defend their “silos.” No public announcements about the fate of this proposal have been made since October 12. What is the current status of the advising restructuring plan?
