

Question Time

Knowing that effective advising can play a critical role in helping students make informed decisions when choosing classes (helping them to minimize wasted credits and thus graduate in a more timely manner), why doesn't IPFW require students to meet with their advisors before registering for classes, especially in the first few semesters?

Jeff Malanson
Department of History