

Question Time

It has been reported that IPFW will no longer seek to continue its Carnegie Community Engagement classification. Is this true? Why is the university not seeking a continued Carnegie Community Engagement classification when departments and faculty have fostered so many connections with the Northeast Indiana community? How will this not hurt our reputation nationally and also not hurt our morale? Also, doesn't this conflict with IPFW Strategic Plan 2020 and our justification for being a Metropolitan university?

Mike Wolf
Department of Political Science